1. Calculation principles of loading units in storage at the inland rail terminal

- The ERS terminal terms and conditions are valid from 25.02.2025, subject to change during the year. All information is without guarantee.
- Special note on dangerous goods containers:
- Dangerous goods containers may be delivered to the terminal at the earliest on the day of the train's departure or collected from the inland rail terminal within the opening hours on the day of the train's arrival. The temporary storage of loading units with dangerous goods is limited to 24 hours.
- After 24 hours, penalty surcharges apply. These costs will be invoiced in addition to the storage fees (see individual terminal conditions, items 2 to 10), handling fees, and any potential shunting costs.
- The free storage time granted by the terminal starts with the arrival of the train and / or from the time the container enters the inland rail terminal and ends with the departure of the container and / or the departure of the train from the inland rail terminal.
- The storage fee is calculated on the basis of calendar days.
- Loading units received on national public holidays are charged as the loading units are received on the following working day.
- Incurred storage charges will be settled according to these terminal conditions and terms, even without prior notice. This applies both to storage charges arising from scheduled transportation and to those resulting from changes in the transportation process.
- Storage fees are generally invoiced in the month following the completion of the transport.
- At peak times, the terminals may declare acceptance stops. The customer must bear all costs incurred as a result of such an acceptance stops, e.g. for return transport (evacuations). Any additional storage / handling charges incurred will be invoiced.

General information for the storage of loading units at inland rail terminals:

- The capacities for interim storage at the inland rail terminal are limited.
- The options and conditions for short-term storage depend on the inland terminal. Currently, the following variants apply:
 - The delivery of containers is only possible within the storage-free period.
 - The delivery of containers before or after the storage-free period is possible, storage fees will apply.
- After the expiration of the free storage period granted by the terminals, the conditions specified per terminal apply to empty and loaded loading units/containers in interim storage.
- ERS reserves the right at all inland rail terminals to relocate loading units to a nearby storage area and/or depot (see Section 11: Storage/Interim Storage Outside Inland Rail Terminals, including transfer for rail dispatch), particularly in cases of capacity constraints at the inland rail terminals.

If the loading unit is picked up or delivered at the seaport terminal in connection with rail transport by the customer, additional handling charges will be applied according to the table below (handling fees & hazardous goods surcharge per movement). These fees apply during the storage-free period at the seaport rail terminals. Should storage fees arise, we may charge an additional handling fee. The storage fees can be found under section 12.2: Storage Fees at the Seaport.

If the loading unit has already been picked up/delivered and needs to be picked up/delivered again (handling truck - terminal - truck), the handling costs will differ from the conditions stated below. These costs will be calculated on a cost-based basis according to the publicly available tariffs of the respective terminal.

Any additional handling will be charged in accordance with these terminal terms and conditions, even without an advice note.

Please note that if storage fees are incurred after the expiration of the free storage period, an additional chargeable handling fee will apply (see table on page 15).

The customer must deliver the import loading units to the rail terminal one working day before the confirmed departure of the train.

For the seaport of Rotterdam, the storage of dangerous goods is limited to a maximum of 13 days. After that, the terminal can transfer the loading unit with the dangerous goods to a separate storage area. The customer is responsible for bearing all resulting costs. ERS is not liable for any damages or costs arising from the customer's delayed pickup of the loading unit.

Any storage charges incurred shall be invoiced in accordance with these terminal terms and conditions, even without notification. This applies both to storage charges incurred during the transport as scheduled and to those resulting from changes to the initial transport schedule. As a rule, storage charges are invoiced in the month following the completion of transportation.
